NATIONAL GUARD NEW JERSEY.
HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT,
SECOND BRIGADE.

CAMDEN, N. J., January 1st, 1901.

To the Officers and Men of the Third Regiment, Greeting:

It is peculiarly fitting that at the threshold of the year 1901, which marks not only the advent of the twentieth century, but the closing scenes of the second millenium of the benign influences of Christianity, that the Third Regiment, N. G. N. J., should be felicitated by its commanding officer upon the admirable progress made by it in those arts which contribute so greatly toward the maintainance of that benign, Christian peace, heralded nearly two thousand years ago.

The Third Regiment has reason to feel proud both of its own record and the record of its individual military ancestors.

The State and the Nation have reason to feel proud of what has been accomplished by the National Guard of the State of New Jersey.

Humanity, as it contemplates the result of the Spanish-American war for liberty, takes more than a passing glance at the brave men of the New Jersey National Guard who pressed to the front when courage, bravery and devotion to both humanity and country were needed, bared their hearts to the burning rain of lead, fought under the inspiration of the God of Humanity and left their corse a sacrifice upon the altar of human liberty.

The Third Regiment is composed of men who have helped to make brighter the most interesting pages in the State's history. They are the creme de la creme of its truest manhood and most exalted aristocracy. With them the honor of the National Guard system is maintained upon the broadest plane of State and National safety. Young only in the present latest form of its organization it is as stable and solid as the rock in the permanency of its basic principles.

Starting the year and century under such hallowed associations of history, and with a bright prospect of success as a military organization, it behooves the officers and guardsmen to be solicitous that the honor of the regiment be maintained during the coming year. With this end in view this appeal is made to you all to be indefatigable in the prosecution of every military duty you owe the State and yourselves during the year 1901. Be attentive to the commands of your superior officers and to every duty required of you by the laws of the State with respect to the government of the National Guard. Fall short in nothing that may contribute in the least degree to the glory and efficiency of the Third Regiment. Aquit you like men and soldiers whom New Jersey shall be proud to honor.

JOHN I. SHINN, Colonel Commanding.

HISTORY OF THE REGIMENT.

From Official Records in the Adjutant's General's Office.

The Sixth Battalion, National Guard, was organized at Millville, N. J., in pursuance of "An Act organizing the National Guard of the State of New Jersey," approved March 9, 1869, and under the provisions of General Orders, No. 5, dated Office of Adjutant General, Trenton, April 14, 1869.

Captain George S. West, appointed January 31, 1900.

The Sixth and Third Regiments have always given a good account of themselves, whether in parade, in camp or on the field. The Sixth Regiment's first service was rendered soon after its organization, in suppressing mob violence and guarding the ballot boxes in what was known as "The Centreville Riot," in South Camden, under Colonel Scovel. It formed part of the provisional Brigade commanded by General Sewell, which occupied Phillipsburg and prevented the destruction of a vast amount of property during the railroad riots of 1877.

The Regiment was largely represented in the Yorktown Battalion, which was awarded the prize, over all State troops, for appearance and drill at the Yorktown Centennial in 1881.

The Regiment is divided into three Battalions. See designation by companies and officers, on another page.

Third Regiment Armory.

As early as 1872 and 1873, the subject of an Armory for the Regiment was talked of among the officers. At a meeting of the Board of Officers, held on December 11, 1877, the first committee on new Armory was appointed, as follows: Captain John H. Austin, of Company B; Captain Joseph C. Lee, of Company C, and First Lieutenant William H. Stansbury, of Company B. The movement did not prove successful. The matter was then dropped until August 7th, 1879, when Mr. Thomas A. Wilson offered for sale to the Regiment the "Old Market House," at the corner of West and Mickle streets. December 4th, 1879, the following committee was appointed to take the matter into consideration: Captains, William H. Stansbury and Joseph C. Lee; Lieutenants, Charles H. Shivers and Thomas H. Walters. This committee succeeded in effecting arrangement for the purchase of the "Old Market House." The building was fitted up for Armory purposes at a cost of several thousand dollars, and the Regiment took possession the following year. December 6th, 1894, Colonel Cooper named the following committee to look after the interests of a new armory: Lieutenant Colonel William H. Stansbury, Major John I. Shinn, Surgeon and Major Daniel Strock, Adjutant C. S. Magrath, Captains, George S. West, William B. E. Miller, Nathan Haines, Charles H. Turner, Albert S. Kille; Lieutenants, George W. Altemus, Jr., and Alonzo Thompson, and Sergeant Major Upton S. Jefferys. Captain West was made chairman of the committee. The Board of Freeholders on behalf of the County, purchased the site for the new building for the sum of $16,000, bonds being issued, payable in 16 years, at 5 per cent. interest.

The Act under which the first appropriation was authorized to build the new Armory was introduced in the State Senate by Hon. Maurice A. Rogers of Camden. Credit is due Generals Sewell and Plume, Hon. Maurice A. Rogers, Hon. Herbert A. Johnson, Hon. Louis T. Derousse, Hon. William J. Thompson and the Armory Committee for the New Armory.

The building is one hundred and eighty feet, nine and one-half inches front on Haddon avenue, by one hundred and ninety-two feet, nine and one-half inches deep, running back to Carteret street. The dimensions of the drill-shed are one hundred and forty feet in width, one hundred and seventy-five feet in length, and sixty-six feet three inches in height. The roof of the drill-shed is constructed of steel trusses of the three hinge type. The arch follows closely the lines of the parabola. The roof trusses consist of four main trusses, four end trusses, four hip trusses, and eight short hip trusses. These trusses are spaced twenty-five feet centres, longitudinally and transversely the end trusses are spaced twenty-seven feet seven inches and twenty-nine feet eight inches. The arrangement of the location of the trusses is symmetrical. The lantern is twenty-nine feet eight inches in width and seventy-five feet long. The roof covering is supported on longitudinal steel purlin trusses which carry the wooded rafters. There is a parapet walk constructed of steel, built around three sides of the drill shed. The gallery is carried on steel girders supported by roof trusses. About five hundred and eighty tons of steel was used in the construction.

In the basement are the kitchen, general toilet room, Quartermasters' store-room, rifle range, boilers, company lockers, company quartermaster's department rooms and bowling alleys. On the first floor are five company rooms and line officers' room, armorers office and workshop. On the second floor are Division quarters, Brigade quarters, Board of Officers room, Colonel's, Adjutant's, Quartermaster's, Staff and bath rooms, Officer's toilet and locker room. The third floor contains the armorer's living quarters, and band field music rooms, and the banquet or squad drill room.

Colonel John I. Shinn.

Colonel Shinn is the second colonel of the new Third Regiment, having succeeded Colonel William H. Cooper, (promoted to Brigadier General in command of the Second Brigade). He was born in Georgetown, Burlington County, N. J., August 30, 1846. Upon the call of the Government for additional troops during the civil war, he enlisted in Company I, Thirty-seventh N. J., Volunteer Infantry, June 23, 1864, when only 18 years of age in the "One Hundred Days' Men" or who were better known as "Grubb's Game Chickens." When Colonel Grubb reported with his regiment to the Brigade Commander, the General rode down the line with the Colonel inspecting the regiment, who were all principally young men about the age of the subject of this sketch, the General remarked, "What have you here—a lot of Chickens?" When Colonel Grubb answered, with considerable spirit, "Yes, but d— it they are Game Chickens." The regiment was landed at Bermuda Hundred, Virginia, July 1, 1864; young Shinn was on the skirmish line at that place, and assisted in building what was known as the Crow's nest battery on the James River; from there he crossed the Appomattox River with his regiment to Fort Spring Hill, and was detailed to special duty at Broadwater Landing. He was on the battle line at the time of the great mine explosion July 30, 1864, and camped at the Peach Orchard until the expiration of his term, when he was mustered out of the United States service. He enlisted as a private in Company A, Sixth Regiment, N. G. N. J., May 2d, 1881. Recognizing his worth, the company elected him to Sergeant July 10, 1882. He became First Sergeant October 18, 1882; and donned his straps as First Lieutenant July 30, 1885, was made Captain of his company October 14, 1885; and Major of the Sixth Regiment June 15, 1893. During the winter of 1898 and 1899 the National Guard of New Jersey was re-organized, whereupon, on May 2, 1899, the Third, Sixth and Seventh Regiments were disbanded, retiring all the Field Officers of the three regiments. Two companies of the old Third and Seventh Regiments each, and the original eight companies of the Sixth Regiment were consolidated or organized into one command, and designated the Third Regiment. On May 19th, 1899, just seventeen days after the retirement of Major Shinn, he was again elected and commissioned the First Major of the new Regiment. He was again honored by his regiment January 12th, 1899, by being unanimously elected its Colonel. He was in command of the encampment at Sea Girt, July, 1900, which was considered the most successful encampment the South Jersey Guard ever had, he having been especially commended by the Commander-in-Chief, Governor Voorhees.

COLONEL JOHN I. SHINN.

Upon the call for troops to serve in the Spanish American war, Colonel Shinn promptly offered his services to the Governor of the States. He was appointed mustering officer in the Spring of 1898, with headquarters at Sea Girt.

Colonel Shinn resides with his family at Burlington. He has had six sons and two daughters, four of his sons have served in the Guard. Judson and Frank I., each having served ten years in company A, Sixth Regiment. Ridgway served six years in same company. When the company was mustered into the United States Volunteers, to serve in the Spanish-American war, while in the discharge of his duties, July 15th, 1898, he died. September 29th, 1900, Frank also departed this life. As Colonel of the regiment he expects every officer to know his duties, and is unsparing in his criticism of those who do not. He has been a close student of all branches of military tactics. His temperament is cool and resolute, which fits him for every emergency, and his thorough knowledge and appreciation of the man under him, enable him to handle his regiment with ease and efficiency. In the administration of his department he has a keen eye for every detail and a quick solution for every trouble. His devotion to his command is constant and unremitting, and his earnest frankness has won the kindly regard of the entire regiment, every member of which supports him with affectionate loyalty.

Colonel Shinn is a member of Parker Grubb Post, No. 16, Grand Army of the Republic, and is a past commander. Besides the military positions he has held, he is a member of City Council of the City of Burlington.

Lieutenant-Colonel John Augustus Mather.

John A. Mather was born at Clarksboro, N. J., July 19, 1865. The record show that he enlisted as a private in Company D, Sixth Regiment, October 10, 1882; that he was promoted corporal, February 5, 1884; was made sergeant, June 6, 1885, and first sergeant, April 19, 1887. He was discharged by reason of expiration of term of service November 3, 1887. He next re-enlisted January 8, 1888, and was discharged by expiration of term of service February 26, 1889. June 20, 1890, young Mather was elected Second Lieutenant of the same company. April 29, 1892, he was chosen to command the company, which position he held until March 6th, of the following year, when he resigned. After the camp at Sea Girt, in 1892, Company H, of Cape May, Sixth Regiment, was disbanded, the instincts of a soldier prompted Captain Mather to recruit a new company in Camden, which he soon succeeded in accomplishing. This company was mustered in and assigned to the regiment as Company G, May 2, 1895. Captain Mather was commissioned its Captain May 29th. Upon the call for volunteers for the Spanish-American war, Captain Mather promptly offered the services of himself and company, which were accepted by the State authorities, and the company was assigned to the Third New Jersey Volunteers, as Company M. He served with his company until his discharge September 24, 1898. Upon the re-organization of the National Guard, his company (G) was assigned to the Third Regiment and designated as Company M. He was again honored by his old company and was unanimously elected as its Captain, May 2, 1899. He was elected Major of the new Third Regiment, July 6, 1899, and Lieutenant-Colonel, January 12, 1900, which position he still retains.

It is creditable to relate that during the war with Spain, while he was stationed at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, his company (M) was selected to man one of the mortar batteries, with Captain Mather in command, thereby acting as a heavy artillery company, which it is needless to say, is one of the most important branches of the regular service.

So steady and rapid a promotion as a National Guardman, where merit is the test of advancement, is sufficient evidence of the character of Colonel Mather. He is a close student of all that pertains to military matters; is quiet and unassuming, and his frankness has won the kindly regard of the entire regiment.

He is a member of the firm of Boddy & Mather, decorators and paper hangers, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

REGIMENTAL STAFF OFFICERS.

Adjutant-Captain George S. West.

Captain West was appointed Adjutant by Colonel Shinn, January 31, 1900. He has served in various capacities, from private up to Lieutenant Colonel, under Colonels Scovel, Sewell, Grubb, Cooper and Shinn, having first enlisted in Company E, under Captain Cooper, (now commandant of the Second Brigade,) in 1872. He was born September 12, 1851, in Boston, Mass., and was brought to Camden with his parents when he was a year old.

Surgeon-Major Paul M. Mecray.

Major Mecray was born at Cape May City, N. J., October 24, 1871. He was appointed Assistant Surgeon, with rank of First Lieutenant, of the Sixth Regiment, by Colonel Cooper, April 6, 1897. June 30, 1898, he was mustered into the United States service, as Assistant Surgeon, and assigned to the Fourth New Jersey Volunteers. He served with his regiment at Sea Girt, Camp Meade and Greenville, N. C. At the latter place he was selected as Assistant to the Chief Surgeon of the Division. On his return from the army, he was appointed Assistant Surgeon of the new Third Regiment, National Guard, June 15, 1899 and was promoted Surgeon with rank of Major, February 9, 1900, in that position he still holds.

Major Mecray while still a young man, has gained an enviable reputation as a surgeon and a successful practitioner of medicine.

Quartermaster H. L. Kramer.

Captain Kramer was appointed Quartermaster by Colonel Shinn, February 9, 1900. He was born in Philadelphia, December 24, 1872, and received his education at Girard College. While attending that noted institution he ranked as one of the best drilled of the Cadets, attaining the rank of Captain of one of the companies. He is thoroughly practical, and his noted for his methodical and prompt performance of duties. In civil life he fills the responsible position of City Clerk of Camden.

Inspector Rifle Practice, Captain Alonzo Thompson.

Captain Thompson enlisted as a private in Company D, Sixth Regiment, March 9, 1886; was promoted Corporal April 19, 1887; Sergeant February 21, 1888; First Sergeant June 10, 1890; discharged by expiration of service April 27, 1891; re-enlisted in Gatling Gun Company B, (light artillery) November 1, 1891, was commissioned First Lieutenant of Company D, Sixth Regiment April 29, 1892; was elected Captain of the same company April 12, 1898; was appointed Paymaster of the Third Regiment February 12, 1900, which position he served until the office was abolished under the new law passed by the Legislature during the winter of 1900. He was then appointed Inspector of Rifle Practice by Colonel Shinn, July 5, 1900. He is very methodical, everything must be just so with him. He has gained an enviable reputation for integrity and is liked by all who know him.

Chaplain-Captain J. Madison Hare.

Captain Hare was appointed Chaplain of the Sixth Regiment by Colonel Cooper, October 14, 1895, and was re-appointed June 15, 1899, to the same position in the the new Third Regiment, which he still retains. He served as Chaplain in two different regiments of the United States Volunteers, in the war with Spain. He is about forty years of age; is a Baptist clergyman, and is at present pastor of a prominent Baptist Church, in Jersey City. He is an enthusiast in rifle practice, and is to-day one of the best shots in the regiment. While his duties as Chaplain are not very arduous, he is always ready to do any proper thing for the advancement of the regiment. One of his interesting characteristics is his ability to make friends. He is sincerely beloved by the whole command.

NON-COMMISSIONED STAFF.

Sergeant Major Benjamin M. Sharp first enlisted in Company G, Sixth Regiment (now Company M;) was appointed Regimental Sergeant Major August 18, 1899. Credit is due the Sergeant Major, for the efficient manner in which he assisted the Adjutant at the Sea Girt encampment, July, 1900. He served as Sergeant Major in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war.

Quartermaster Sergeant Eugene M. Turner rose from the ranks. He enlisted in Company D, Sixth Regiment, some years ago; was appointed to his present position May 14, 1899, and was re-appointed May 14, 1900. He has gained for himself a commendable record in the position which he holds.

Commissary Sergeant Robert Morton first enlisted in Company B, Sixth Regiment. He was appointed to his present position May 2, 1899, and re-appointed May 2, 1900. He is one of the youngest and most capable non-commissioned officers in the Regiment.

HOSPITAL STEWARDS.

The three Hospital Stewards have been in the Guard a comparatively short period. They are graduates in pharmacy. William C. Finkeni resides in Camden. He was appointed May 5, and assigned to the Second Battalion. William E. Lightcap resides in Burlington. He was appointed May 5, 1900, and assigned to the First Battalion. Andrew S. Scull is a resident of Camden. He was appointed June 26, 1900, and assigned to the Third Battalion.

COLOR SERGEANTS.

Harry C. Avis was appointed Color Sergeant May 2, 1899, and re-appointed May 2, 1900. He first enlisted in Company G (now Company M) as a private. He is a young man of an excellent character. He served in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war. Edward C. Lehr first enlisted in Gatling Gun Company B. He also served as a soldier in Company D, Sixth Regiment. He has served in the various grades. He has a splendid record as a soldier.

Chief-Musician Josephus Jennings.

Chief Jennings, has been a musician from boyhood up. In 1869 he organized the National Cornet Band, which a short time afterward became connected with the Sixth Regiment. He joined the Sixth Regiment as principal musician under Colonel Scovel, and has since served in that capacity under Colonels Sewell, Grubb and Cooper, and as chief musician under Colonel Shinn in the new Third, which position he still holds. He had labored diligently and successfully in securing the high reputation which the Third Regiment band now enjoys. He is a thorough instructor and a strict disciplinarian.

BATTALION SERGEANTS MAJOR.

The three Battalion Sergeants Major are all excellent soldiers. They are assigned as follows, viz: George W. Slack resides at Burlington, was appointed August 18, 1899, and assigned to the First Battalion. Clarence R. Fisher resides in Camden. He served in the Spanish-American war; was appointed Sergeant Major, August 18, 1899, and is assigned to the Second Battalion. William A. Hamman is an old guardsman. He resides at Atlantic City and served at one time as Lieutenant of Company F, Sixth Regiment. He was appointed to his present position August 18, 1899.

PRINCIPAL MUSICIANS.

Maurice J. Hayes, Jr., first enlisted as a musician in Company D, Sixth Regiment, several years ago. He was appointed Principal Musician May 4, 1900. He has been leader of the Ivy or Third Regiment Fife and Drum Corps. He is a thorough instructor and a strict disciplinarian.

Edward C. O'Donnell was appointed Principal Musician of the regiment May 14, 1900. He is an excellent bugler, and has charge of the Regimental Bugle Corps.

Howard Scott was appointed Regimental Bugler, August 4, 1899. He first enlisted in Company E, Sixth Regiment. He served in the Spanish-American war. He is a young man of excellent character and a good soldier.

Did some one speak of Robert E. Riley, our Drum Major? Why certainly, he never gets left, he is the Beau Brummel of the Regiment. He was appointed drum major June 4, 1900. He served in the Guard a number of years. He served in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war. Everybody has a good word for Bob.

FIRST BATTALION.

COMPANIES A, E, G and I.

MAJOR CHARLES R. SHIMER COMMANDING.

Major Charles R. Shimer.

Major Shimer is the Senior Major of the Regiment and commands the First Battalion. July, 1882, he enlisted in Company D, First Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, and during his twelve years' service, he advanced step by step to the rank of Second Lieutenant, commanding his company for one year. He resigned in 1894, and January 8, 1896, was elected Captain of Company B, Sixth New Jersey. He was elected Major of the new Third Regiment, July 6, 1899.

Major Shimer was born in Shimerville, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, February 27, 1864. He is at the head of the old established firm of George Shimer & Son, Woolen Manufacturers, of Camden, having succeeded his father on the latter's death, a few years since. Major Shimer takes great interest in National Guard matters—particularly in his Battalion, which he claims to be the best Battalion in the Guard.

Battalion Adjutant-First Lieutenant Tuttle C. Walker.

Lieutenant Walker has been a member of the National Guard for a number of years. He was appointed Battalion Adjutant June 16, 1899, which position he still holds, being assigned to the First Battalion, Major Shimer commanding. Mr. Walker is young and enthusiastic. He is connected with the Atlantic City Daily Press.

Assistant Surgeon-First Lieutenant James E. Blair.

Lieutenant Blair was appointed Assistant Surgeon of the Third Regiment by Colonel Shinn, March 5, 1900. He is a young man and has never been connected with the military before. He is a prominent Surgeon and a practitioner of medicine at Burlington, where he resides. He made an excellent record for himself at Sea Girt Camp July, 1900. He is genial, and well liked by all who know him.

COMPANY A.

Captain Edward B. Stone.

Captain Stone first joined Company A, Sixth Regiment, February 7th, 1894, when he was 18 years of age. He was elected Second Lieutenant of his company, and Captain February 21, 1900. He served in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war. He is young, energetic and a very capable officer. He is particular as to the minutest detail, and can always be depended on in every emergency.

First Lieutenant Morris B. Robinson.

Lieutenant Robinson enlisted in Company A, Sixth Regiment, January 31, 1896, when only 19 years of age; he has been an enthusiastic member ever since. June 6th, 1900, he was elected to the position he now holds. He is a young and efficient officer, and supports his captain with fidelity. He served in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war.

Second Lieutenant James Francis Hawkey.

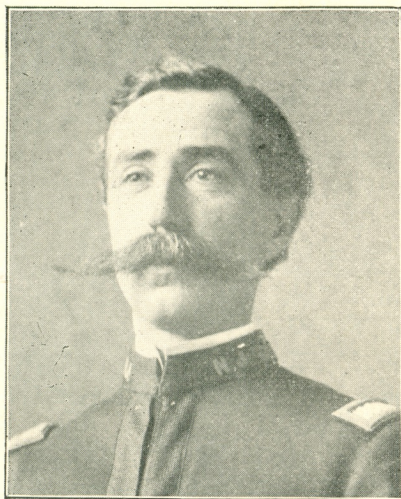

Lieutenant Hawkey entered Company A, Sixth Regiment, when about nineteen years of age. He enlisted November 1, 1893, and was elected Second Lieutenant of his company February 21, 1900. He served in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war.

COMPANY E.

Captain Micajah E. Matlack.

Captain Matlack was born in Mercer County, N. J., December 19, 1862, and is an attorney-at-law. He first entered the Guard in Company F, Seventh Regiment, October 1881; was promoted corporal October 2, 1882; was made sergeant December 5, 1883; first sergeant December 1, 1885. He was elected second lieutenant April 4, 1887; serving as such until the summer of 1891, when he resigned. He then went to Washington Territory, where he remained about a year, returning to Mount Holly. He was appointed Battalion Adjutant of the Seventh Regiment May 14, 1894, which position he retained until the regiment was disbanded in May, 1899, a number of the companies, his among them, being transferred to the new Third Regiment. March 27, 1900, he was chosen captain. He is a painstaking, capable officer, and expects every man of his command to do their full duty. He was elected to the Legislature from Burlington County in 1892, and served three years.

First Lieutenant John C. Sims, Jr.

Lieutenant Sims was born March 25, 1875, at Prescott, Ontario, Canada, at which place his father, the late Honorable Clifford Stanley Sims, was Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals, and United States Consul. Lieutenant Sims is a lawyer by profession, and is a member of the law firm of Sims & Darnell. He enlisted in Company F, Seventh Regiment January 3, 1898, and followed the fortunes of that command during the re-organization period of the National Guard, May, 1899. He was elected Second Lieutenant of his company February 19, 1900, and was chosen First Lieutenant June 27, 1900, which position he still holds. Though of a retiring nature he is popular and takes rank among the effective workers of the Guard.

Second Lieutenant Nelson Burr Gaskill.

Lieutenant Gaskill was born in Mount Holly, N. J., about 25 years ago. He is son of the Honorable Joseph H. Gaskill, Judge of the Burlington County Courts, and is a graduate of Princeton College and the Harvard Law School. At Princeton he received the junior prize for oratory. He practices law with his father in Camden. He attached himself to Company E, Seventh Regiment, some years ago. As a result of the disbandment of the Seventh Regiment, his company was assigned to the new Third. He was honored by his company by being elected second lieutenant, which position he still holds. Lieutenant Gaskill has the reputation of being very punctilious in regard to the courtesies and amenities of military service, and is looked upon as one of the most promising young officers in the National Guard.

COMPANY G.

Captain James V. Cain.

Captain Cain has been in the National Guard for many years, and has served in every capacity from private to captain. He assumed command of his company June 29, 1900. He is of a retiring disposition, but has the reputation of being a hard and earnest worker.

First Lieutenant Edward Caterall.

Lieutenant Caterall has been first lieutenant since July 10, 1884, and is the senior first lieutenant in the regiment. He is devoted to the interests of his company, but has no desire for promotion.

Second Lieutenant Harry Woolman.

Lieutenant Woolman has just been commissioned second Lieutenant. He has been a member of the National Guard for a number of years, having enlisted in the old Seventh Regiment. He is quiet and unassuming, and will, doubtless, make a capable officer.

COMPANY I.

Captain Charles Walter Shivers.

Captain Shivers comes of old military stock, being the great grandson of Jeremiah Simmons, a colonist, who commanded a floating battery in the revolutionary war, and died defending the same.

Captain Shivers was born at Woodbury, December 2, 1871. He enlisted in Company E, Sixth Regiment, March 26, 1891; was promoted corporal August 14, 1893; was elected second lieutenant November 20, 1893; and first lieutenant May 6, 1896. At the call for troops to serve in the Spanish-American war, Company E was mustered into the United States Volunteers and assigned to the Fourth Regiment as Company I, when Lieutenant Shivers was commissioned its first lieutenant, June 20, 1898. He was promoted Captain November 17, 1898, and assigned to Company M of the same regiment. He resigned his commission January 19, 1899. Upon the reorganization of the National Guard, Company E was assigned to the new Third Regiment, and designated as Company I. Lieutenant Shivers was unanimously elected captain February 19, 1900. He is an efficient officer, a good tactician and an excellent instructor. He resides at the home of his birth, and is connected with one of the banks at that place.

First Lieutenant William M. Angle.

Lieutenant Angle enlisted in Company E, Sixth Regiment, April 16, 1888; was appointed battalion adjutant of same regiment June 26, 1896, and was retired with the rest of the staff officers of the regiment at the reorganization. The instincts of a soldier prompted him to again enlist in Company I, of the Third Regiment, as a private, when on February 19, 1900, he was unanimously elected first lieutenant, which position he now holds. On account of his fitness, he is usually selected to act as battalion adjutant of his battalion, when the regular adjutant is absent.

Second Lieutenant Harry F. White.

Lieutenant White has been a member of the National Guard since 1893; advancing through the different grades until March 12, 1900, when he was elected second lieutenant. He served in the New Jersey Volunteers during the Spanish-American war. He is a good officer, and is well liked by the members of his company.

SECOND BATTALION.

COMPANIES B, C, D and M.

MAJOR THOMAS DURLAND LANDON COMMANDING.

Major Thomas Durland Landon.

Major Landon dates his connection with the National Guard since December 3, 1885, when he enlisted as a private in Company A, Sixth Regiment, under Captain John I Shinn (now Colonel). He was promoted corporal, November 17, 1886; was elected Second Lieutenant of the company January 25, 1888, and Captain July 17, 1893. Upon the call of the Government for troops for the Spanish-American war, Captain Landon offered his services to the Governor of the State, by whom he was commissioned Major, and assigned to the command of one of the Battalions of the Third New Jersey Volunteers. This position he resigned September 26, 1898, and resumed the command of his old company. Upon the re-organization of the National Guard his company was assigned to the new Third Regiment, retaining its old letter—A. It is worthy of note that as Major of the United States Volunteers, he was considered one of the best drill masters in the volunteer service. He was elected Major of the new Third Regiment and assigned to command the Second Battalion.

Major Landon first saw the light of day at Belvidere, N. J., May 18, 1863. His father, the Rev. Thomson H. Landon, A. M., a Methodist clergyman, leased the Bordentown Military Institute, associating young Landon with him as a partner and its business manager. Young Landon entered the cadet organization under the instruction of Colonel William R. Murphy, late of the Tenth New Jersey Volunteers. He was made captain and commandant of the Cadet Corps, May 10, 1892. Since December 3, 1885, he has been instructor of military drills at various educational institutions.

Major Landon's military tastes are highly cultivated; his temperament cool and resolute, and his thorough knowledge and appreciation of the men under him, enables him to handle his Battalion with ease and effectiveness. He was appointed by General William H. Cooper a member of the Examining Board of the Second Brigade, for the examination of newly-elected officers.

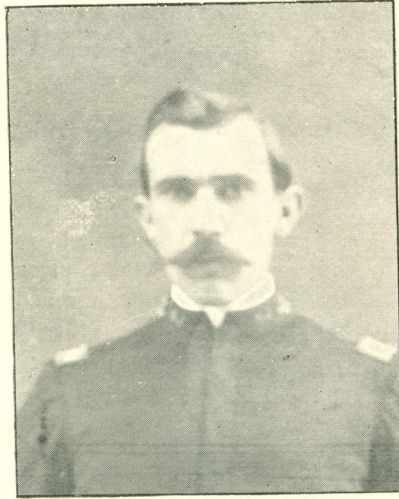

Battalion Adjutant-First Lieutenant F. Wallis Armstrong

Lieutenant Armstrong is Battalion Adjutant assigned to the Second Battalion, Major Landon, commanding. He was elected First Lieutenant of Company B, Sixth Regiment, April 26, 1896; served as Battalion Adjutant under Major Landon, in the United States Volunteers, during the Spanish-American war, and was appointed Battalion Adjutant of the new Third Regiment June 16, 1899. He is one of the most genial and popular officers in the National Guard.

Assistant Surgeant-First Lieutenant Walter S. Bray.

Lieutenant Bray was appointed Assistant Surgeon by Colonel Cooper, June 15, 1899, which position he still retains. He is a prominent practitioner of medicine in the city of Camden. He is a close student, and considered one of the best bacteriologists in this section of the State. He is a capital story teller and is very popular.

COMPANY B.

Captain Winfield S. Price.

Captain Price is a genuine Jerseyman. He first saw the light of day near Barnesboro, Gloucester County, June 21, 1873. He comes from old military stock, his ancestors having taken part in every war in this country since and including the war of 1776. He enlisted in Company C, Sixth Regiment, June 22, 1892; was promoted corporal February 23, 1894; was made sergeant September 14, 1894; first sergeant February 7, 1896; was elected first lieutenant of Company C, Third Regiment, May 2, 1899, and captain of Company B, August 17, 1899, which position he still holds. He served as First Lieutenant in the United States Volunteers, in the Spanish war, during which time he was selected by the Brigade commander to serve as Provost Marshal of the First Brigade, Third Division, Second Army Corps, November 29, 1898, and served in that capacity until the office was discontinued February 2, 1899. Captain Price is fearless in the face of danger, and never loses his head. He is an enthusiast in military matters, and is naturally regarded as one of the authorities on questions relating to National Guard affairs.

First Lieutenant Charles S. Ridgway.

Lieutenant Ridgway enlisted in Company B, Sixth Regiment, March 21, 1877. He was elected first lieutenant August 17, 1899. As a guardsmen he is making a good record for himself. He has been appointed member of the regimental court-martial board.

Second Lieutenant Jacob S. Buist.

Lieutenant Buist was born at Philadelphia, Pa., March 4, 1870; he enlisted as a private in Company C, First Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, May 1, 1887; was made corporal June 1, 1888; Q. M. Serg. July 7, 1892, and acted as such during the riots at Homesteadville, Pa., sergeant

June 10, 1893; acted as first sergeant from August 11, 1895; honorably discharged by expiration of service May 8, 1896. June 6, 1896, he was elected second lieutenant of Company B, Sixth Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey; entered the United States Volunteers for the Spanish war as second lieutenant July 1, 1898, and was assigned to Company K, Fourth New Jersey Volunteers. He resigned from the volunteers September 15, 1898; on November 9, 1898, was again commissioned as second lieutenant of same company and regiment of volunteers; promoted first lieutenant of volunteers March 7, 1899, and assigned to Company E, of the Fourth Regiment; was mustered out at Greenville, S. C. April 6, 1899; rejoined his old company of the Sixth Regiment April 13, 1899; was in command of his company for some time. In September, 1899, he was temporarily assigned to the command of Battery B, remaining in charge of that organization until February 12, 1900. He has acted as Battalion Adjutant on several occasions in a highly creditable manner.

COMPANY C.

Captain Henry J. House.

Captain House was born in the city of Rochester, Monroe County, New York, September 15, 1868. About the year 1881, he moved to Camden. He enlisted in Company C, Sixth Regiment, August 16, 1888; was promoted corporal December 14, 1888; and was made sergeant April 7, 1891. He was elected second lieutenant February 5, 1892, and served as such with his company in the Third New Jersey Volunteers, (Infantry) in the Spanish-American war. He was honorably discharged February 11, 1899. He was again honored by being elected captain of Company C, of the newly organized Third Regiment, April 3, 1900, which position he still holds. Captain House is regarded as one of the best posted officers in the regiment, and though slow to make friends, he is best appreciated by those who know him longest.

COMPANY D.

Capain A. Blair Frazee

Captain Frazee is one of the youngest captains in the army. He was born in Camden, April 27, 1875. His military career began as a private in Company G, Sixth Regiment, 1895; he was promoted corporal; was made sergeant in 1895; and elected first lieutenant of Company D, 17, 1899. On the re-organization of the National Guard, he was assigned to the new Third Regiment and was elected its captain, which position he still holds. He was elected into the United States service to serve in the Spanish-American war. He joined Company M, Third New Jersey Regiment, 1898, as sergeant; was promoted battalion sergeant, May 24, 1898. He was honorably discharged in 1898. Captain Frazee is very particular about his personal appearance and etiquette, and expects others to be equally so.

COMPANY D.

Captain A. Blair Frazee, Jr.

Captain Frazee is one of the youngest captains in the regiment. He was born in Camden, April 27, 1875. His military career commenced as a private in Company G, Sixth Regiment, May 2, 1895; May 27, 1895, he was promoted corporal; was made sergeant September 2, 1895; and elected first lieutenant of Company D, same regiment, March 17, 1899. On the re-organization of the National Guard, his company was assigned to the new Third Regiment and designated as Company M. February 27, 1900, he was again honored by his company by being elected its captain, which position he still holds. He was mustered into the United States service to serve in the Spanish-American war. He joined Company M, Third New Jersey Volunteers. May 2, 1898, as sergeant; was promoted battalion sergeant major in the same regiment, May 24, 1898. He was honorably discharged November 16, 1898. Captain Frazee is very particular about military courtesy and etiquette, and expects others to be equally so.

First Lieutenant Byron Clifford Purnell.

Lieutenant Purnell has an excellent record. He enlisted in Company D, Sixth Regiment, February 3, 1891, and passed through the different grades, until he was elected first lieutenant March 13, 1900, which position he still holds. He is one of the working members of his company, and is always to the front when duty calls.

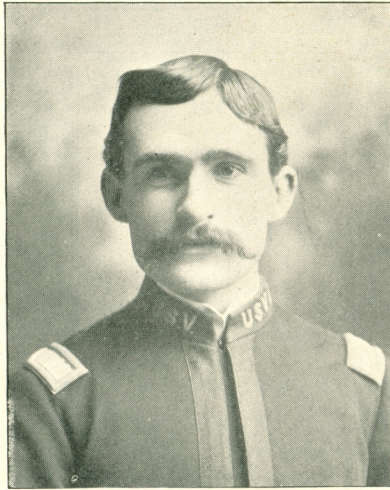

Second Lieutenant Lewis A. Proud.

Lieutenant Proud enlisted in Company D, Sixth Regiment June 13, 1896, as a private; he has served in his company as corporal and sergeant and was elected second lieutenant March 13, 1900.

COMPANY M.

Captain James E. Mather.

Captain Mather was born at Philadelphia, Pa., June 7, 1874. He came to Camden with his parents March, 1882. In 1886 he joined the Springfield Guards, a cadet military organization attached to St. Pauls' P. E. Church; was promoted to first sergeant 1887; second lieutenant in 1888, and captain in 1890, in which capacity he continued until the disbandment of the organization. The instincts of a soldier being so strong in him, he enlisted in Company D, Sixth Regiment, April 19, 1892, being promoted corporal December 19, 1893. He was elected first lieutenant of Company G, May 29, 1895. Upon the call for troops to serve in the Spanish war his company was mustered into the United States Volunteers, and assigned to the Third New Jersey Regiment as Company M. He was commissioned first lieutenant April 27, 1898; and was made captain September 25, 1898, serving as such until his company was mustered out at Athens, Ga., February 11, 1899. Upon the re-organization of the State National Guard Company G was assigned to the new Third Regiment as Company M, Captain Mather being re-commissioned as its first lieutenant May 2, 1899. He was again honored by being elected captain August 7, 1899, which position he still holds. Captain Mather is one of the recognized authorities in the regiment on all military questions and problems. He was selected by Colonel Cooper to assist Lieutenant Rowell of the United States Army as assistant instructor in general guard duty at the Sea Girt Camp in 1896, and has also officiated temporarily as Regimental Adjutant.

First Lieutenant William S. Tash.

Lieutenant Tash gained his first experience in military life as a member of the noted Company D, First Regiment Pennsylvania National Guard of Philadelphia, in which organization he served three years. In November, 1895, he was elected second lieutenant of Company G, Sixth Regiment National Guard New Jersey, of Camden. During the Spanish - American war his company being assigned as Company M to the Third New Jersey Volunteers', he served in the same capacity for eight months. He was elected first lieutenant of same command on re-organization of the Guard, his company retaining the same letter and designation as it had during the war with Spain.

Second Lieutenant Charles H. Thomas.

Lieutenant Thomas enlisted as a private in Company G, Sixth Regiment, May 2, 1895; was made corporal May 27, 1895, and sergeant March 1, 1897. May 2, 1898, he was with his company in the United States service for the Spanish-American war as first sergeant. He was promoted first lieutenant September 25, 1898, and was honorably discharged February 11, 1899. Was appointed sergeant Company M, new Third Regiment, May 2, 1899, and promoted second lieutenant Company M, September 11, 1899, which position he still holds. He is of a quiet, unassuming disposition, and is well liked by the members of his company.

Major Daniel Thackara Mathers.

Major Mathers was born at Philadelphia, October 17, 1862, being now a resident of Woodbury, and holding a responsible position in the far-famed proprietary establishment of Col. G. G. Green. He has been in continuous service in the New Jersey National Guard nearly twenty-one years, the records showing that he enlisted in Company E, Sixth Regiment, as a private March 4, 1880, at Woodbury; that he was promoted Sergeant October 6, 1882, was made First Sergeant May 14, 1885, was elected Second Lieutenant May 7, 1888, First Lieutenant

September 12, 1892, and Captain May 6, 1896. Upon the re-organization of the National Guard and the disbandment of the Sixth Regiment, his company was assigned to the new Third Regiment and designated as Company I, with Captain Mathers in command. January 12, 1900, he was elected and commissioned Major and assigned to command the Third Battalion, which position he still holds.

Major Mathers wears a twenty year service medal, of which he is justly proud. He is considered one of the best disciplinarians in the regiment. Under his command Company E, (now Company I) in the matter of rifle practice, took first place as a company in the State, and maintained it for a number of years. As an officer he has gained an enviable reputation as a model soldier. He is a painstaking and hard working officer, and expects those under him to do their full duty.

Battalion Adjutant First Lieutenant Walter E. Edge.

Lieutenant Edge was born at Philadelphia, November 20, 1873. He served seven years as private, corporal and sergeant of the Morris Guards, a crack independent military organization of Atlantic City. When the Morris Guards were accepted by Governor Voorhees as a company of the Fourth New Jersey Volunteers, (and designated as Company F) for service in the Spanish-American war, he was commissioned its Second Lieutenant, which position he held until he resigned September 26, 1898. He was subsequently appointed Third Battalion Adjutant of the Third Regiment, August 18, 1899, which position he still holds. He also is publisher and proprietor of the Atlantic City Daily Press, and fills the important office of Secretary of the State Senate during the present session of the Legislature.

Assistant Surgeon-First Lieutenant, Richard M. A. Davis

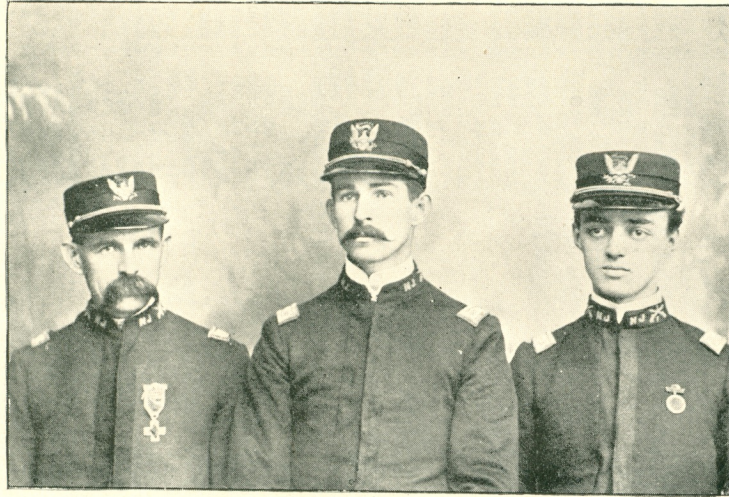

Lieutenant Davis was born at Salem, N. J., December 28, 1873. Was appointed Assistant Surgeon to the new Third Regiment, October 23, 1899. He passed a very rigid examination before being commissioned. While his record is not as extensive as some, he has not had as many years to work it up in, being one of the younger officers on our roster. He is "hale fellow well met," and one of the best horsemen in the regiment.

COMPANY F.

First Lieutenant
Winfield S. Shute.

Lieutenant Shute has been a member of the Guard since 1891, having passed through the several grades as a non-commissioned officer until June 3, 1900, when he was elected first lieutenant, the position he now holds.

Second Lieutenant
George L. Miller.

Lieutenant Miller has been a member of the Guard since 1893. He has advanced step by step, until June 3, 1900, when he was elected second lieutenant, which position he still holds.

64

Captain Walter E. Turner.

Captain Turner was elected first lieutenant of Company K, Sixth Regiment, July 18, 1893. When his company was assigned to the new Third Regiment, as Company F, he served as its first lieutenant until June 26, 1900, when he was unanimously elected captain, which position he still holds. He is a painstaking, capable and popular officer. Captain Turner has been a member of the Guard since 1887.

COMPANY K.

EX-CAPTAIN CHARLES MORRIS.

First Lieutenant Joseph H. C. Schenck.

Company K, is without a captain, Captain Charles Morris, having just resigned, after serving in that capacity since May 21, 1885, the command of the company falling on the shoulders of Lieutenant Schenck. In the reorganization of the National Guard, Company K was assigned to the new Third Regiment and Lieutenant Schenck was commissioned first lieutenant June 18, 1900. He is a capable officer, and considered a good tactician.

Second Lieutenant Robert J. Forfar.

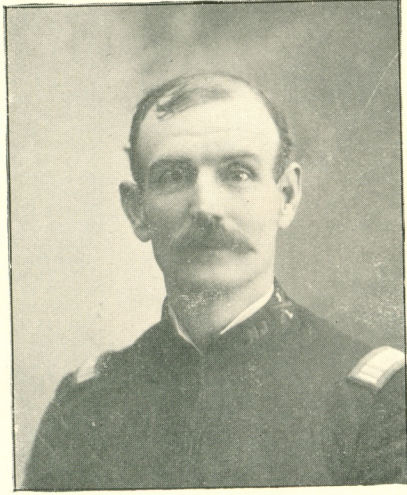

Lieutenant Forfar was commissioned second lieutenant June 18, 1900. He rose from the ranks, having served several years in the Guard, and bears a most excellent record.

COMPANY L.

Captain Richard R. Albertson.

Captain Albertson connected himself with the National Guard at Atlantic City, May 4, 1886, as a member of Company A, Sea Coast Artillery. Was promoted first sergeant February 4, 1887, in which capacity he served till the disbandment of company December 29, 1888. Upon the organization of Company F, Sixth Regiment, March 26, 1889, he was one of the first to enlist, being elected first sergeant April 16, the same year. March 8, 1892, he was commissioned second lieutenant, and first lieutenant January 21, 1895. He was chosen captain July 11, 1899, after the re-organization of the National Guard and the assignment of his company as Company L, to the Third Regiment.

First Lieutenant Ernest W. McCann.

Lieutenant McCann has been a member of the Guard since February 9, 1892; was commissioned second lieutenant February 2, 1895; first lieutenant July 11, 1899. He is young, ambitious and has a bright future before him as a military man.

Second Lieutenant John B. Adams.

Enlisted in Company F, Sixth Regiment, May 1, 1893; was made corporal July 10, 1894; sergeant October 16, 1894; and first sergeant December 22, 1896. After serving three full terms of enlistment, his company was assigned to the new Third Regiment, and designated as Company M. He still retained his rank of first sergeant. He was elected second lieutenant July 11, 1899, which position he still holds. He was born at Atlantic City, October 28, 1869. He is a lawyer by profession, and is very popular in the community in which he lives. He is of a quiet disposition and very methodical.

Brigadier General William H Cooper.

General Cooper was born in Bristol, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, February 22, 1844. At the age of eighteen he enlisted in Company I, Third Pennsylvania Reserves. At the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, he was wounded in the right arm. Was subsequently made a corporal, and was discharged in 1863. He enlisted in Company E, Fifth Battalion, December 11, 1869, which he assisted in organizing, and was elected its First Lieutenant August 24, 1870.

When the Fifth Battalion was merged into the Sixth Regiment, N. G., Lieutenant Cooper was elected Captain February 13, 1871. May 10, 1877, he was elected Major. February 16, 1881, he was chosen Lieutenant Colonel, and Colonel September 1, 1882. In 1896 Governor Griggs presented him with a 25 years' service metal. He is one of the oldest commissioned officers in the National Guard of the State. December 15, 1899 he, was commissioned Brigadier General of the Second Brigade. When he became a member of the Sixth Regiment it was made up of four companies, and its entire roster numbered 200 men. He was the last Colonel of the old Sixth and the first Colonel of the new Third.

POINTERS.

MILITARY CORRESPONDENCE.

Official correspondence should refer to one subject only.

Always leave the outside page blank for endorsements.

Always leave a convenient and liberal margin on the left of each page.

Head communications, thus, viz :—

CAMDEN, N., J. January 1, 1901.

*Colonel John I. Shinn,
Third Regiment, National Guard,
Burlington, N. J.*

SIR :—

(If in making a request) “ I have the honor to request ”—

(If in reply to a request) “ Replying to your request of the (give date of the request or letter received) I have the honor to—

The superscription should be—

Very respectfully,

RANKIN S. WILKINS,

Capt. Co. D, 3rd Inf., N. G.

In addressing an officer, the rank always precedes the name.

Always sign your signature with a pen, never use fac similies or stamps.

All communications addressed to superior officers, the word “ Sir ” is invariably used, and not “ Dear Sir.” To officers junior of the correspondent to words “ Dear Sir,” or “ My Dear Sir,” may be used, but the plain word “ Sir,” is preferable in all cases.

In addressing an officer, use no other title than that of his actual rank.

To fold your communication, if letter paper, fold in three ; if in fools-cap, in four equal folds, parallel with the writing. The inner or left hand edge should be at the top when folded. The left hand or outer page should be the first fold, thereby leaving the first fold to be used exclusively for a brief analysis of the contents of the communication, office marks, and noting of enclosures.

(For example)

Company D, Third Regiment Infantry, National Guard,

Camden, N. J., January 1, 1901.

Captain, John T. Rankin.

(Give subject of contents of communication)

The second fold to be used for endorsements, commencing at the top and numbered serially, following each other in the order of date on the successive folds, being careful to leave room after each endorsement for office marks.

(For example)

First Endorsement.

Headquarters Third Regiment, Infantry, National Guard,
Camden, N. J., January 1, 1901.

Respectfully forwarded approved.

John I. Shinn,
Colonel.

Second Endorsement.

(and so on)

The general rule of communications as to channels are : All communications, whether from an inferior to a superior, or vice versa, forwarded direct to the person addressed, but must pass through the intermediate commanders. This rule also applies to verbal applications.

In writing names of soldiers, in all cases, give the christian and surname in full, and the initial of the middle name, if any. (For example) "John I. Shinn," if giving a list of names alphabetically, "Shinn, John I."

The size of company orders should be 5 by 8, or on postal cards.

All company orders, circulars and notices will be signed by company commander as official and sent to Regimental Headquarters.

MILITARY COURTESY.

The conduct of a soldier entering an armory, should be orderly and respectful. The drill-room is considered out-of-doors and other rooms as in doors.

Upon the entrance of an officer to a room where soldiers are congregated, unarmed, the soldier perceiving him first should give the command attention, when all rise, uncover, and stand at attention until the officer leaves or desires them to be seated. If the soldier or soldiers are armed when an officer enters a room, each should give the rifle salute with the rifle at an order. Upon a soldier entering an officer's quarters unarmed, he should uncover, if with a rifle, he should give the rifle salute.

When passing an officer out-of-doors, when within six paces he salutes and retains the salute until it is acknowledged or the officer has passed; if armed with a rifle he gives the rifle salute, if unarmed he salutes with the hand. If seated and un-occupied and an officer approaches, rise, face the officer and salute. If smoking when an officer approaches, remove the cigar or pipe from the mouth and salute.

If an officer is in his quarters and can be seen from the outside, he need not be saluted. A soldier always salutes an officer before speaking to him and receiving a reply. In walking with an officer or non-commissioned officer, a soldier's position is always on the left.

A soldier approaching an officer in his quarters, halts at three paces and salutes, and salutes when leaving.

A soldier in holding a communication with an officer, he habitually uses the word "Sir." An officer is always addressed by the grade which he holds without any abbreviation of his title, "Cap." for Captain, or "Lieut." for Lieutenant, which is very bad manners and highly unmilitary.

A party upon entering any premises, the senior should precede, and upon leaving, the junior leads, when the senior has indicated his desire to leave. In being seated, the junior should take seat when the senior is seated.

INSIGNIA OF GRADE.

General officers, are officers of the rank of Brigadier General and upwards. When in full dress, epaulettes are worn by general officers only, which are in gold. On the epaulettes of the general of the army, are two five pointed stars in silver, with the arms of the United States, in gold between them.

In like manner there will be added an additional half-chevron, above and parallel to the first, for every subsequent five years' faithful service; distance between each chevron, one-fourth of an inch.

Regimental and battalion sergeant majors, will wear an aiguillette of white worsted.

EXTRACTS FROM LAWS.

STATE MILITARY BOARD.

The "State Military Board" consists of the adjutant-general, quartermaster general and the division and brigade commanders, who from time to time prepare and submit rules and regulations, forms and precedents, for the use and government of the National Guard; and the same, upon the approval of the commander-in-chief, are published in orders by the adjutant-general. Laws 1900, page 451, par. 108.

EXEMPTIONS.

All officers and enlisted men are exempt from jury duty during the time they are serving, and are forever exempt if honorably discharged. Laws 1900, page 458, par. 140.

All officers and enlisted men are exempt from State, county and municipal taxation upon five hundred dollars during the period they are actually serving. Laws 1900, page 458, par. 140.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

If an officer remove out of the State, or be absent for more than six months, his commission shall thereupon be void. Laws 1900, page 436, par. 37.

No commissioned officer resigning shall be entitled to receive an honorable discharge, unless his accounts for public property shall have been settled at the quartermaster-general's office, within ninety days. Laws 1900, page 436, par. 35.

Officers and non-commissioned staff officers are permitted to draw rifles and revolvers for their personal use. Requisition for them must be made through regular channels. Laws 1900, page 436, par. 45.

If any officer holding a commission in the National Guard shall accept an appointment or election to any other military or naval office in the service of this State, or of the United States, the commission which he shall hold at the time of such acceptance shall be void. Laws, 1900, page 436, Sec. 36.

ELECTION AND COURTS-MARTIAL NOTICES, WHEN TO BE SERVED.

All elections shall be by ballot, on five days' notice of the time and place to all persons entitled to vote, and a majority of all votes cast shall be necessary to a choice. Laws, 1900, page 434, par. 24.

Court-martial notices should be served by the First Sergeant at least two days before the time specified for trial. Laws, 1900, pages 446 and 457, pars. 81 and 133.

Commanding officers of companies are required to file under oath the names and addresses of the members of their companies with the Sheriff and Tax Commissioners on or before the first of May in each year. Laws, 1900, page 453, par. 141.

Extracts from Instructions "For First Aid to Injured."

A Shock.—If faint and cold, give stimulant in small doses, once in fifteen or twenty minutes, and secure warmth by external applications or rubbing.

Bleeding from Wound.—If from an artery, stop the current of blood to the wound by putting a compress or cloth pad over the artery. Fasten it firmly by a handkerchief or bandage, which may be tightened by twisting in a stick as a binder. The location of the artery can generally be determined by the throbbing sensation. If from a vein, apply pressure directly over the wound or by exposure or application of cold water. Perchloride of iron may be applied with cloth or lint. Keep the part elevated.

Wounds—The part should be properly cleansed of all foreign matter, the edges brought together and fastened with strips of plaster ; apply some anodyne solution ; give stimulant, laudanum with brandy, if necessary.

Bruises.—Apply tincture of arnica and wormwood or hamamelis ; keep well covered and warm.

Drowning.—Freely expose the face, neck and chest in the breeze, except in very severe weather. Turn the patient on the face, and elevate the body so that the water in the lungs may flow out at the nose and mouth. First, turn the patient slightly on his side, apply snuff or ammonia to the nostrils, dash cold water in the face, rubbing the body briskly until it is warm. To imitate respiration, turn the patient on his face, then turn the body gently but completely on the side and a little beyond, repeating the same measures deliberately, efficiently and perseveringly fifteen times a minute in all. This number of thoracic movements per minute acts with the natural order of respiratory thoracic dilations and contractions, corresponds with the slow-movement of the heart, averaging something less than sixty pulsations per minute. When the prone position is resumed, make equable but efficient pressure along the spine ; remove it immediately before rotation on the side. (The first measure augments expiration ; the second commences inspiration.) To induce circulation and warmth, continue these measures, rubbing the limbs upwards with a firm pressure and with energy, using handkerchiefs, etc. Replace the patient's wet clothing by such other as can be soonest procured. To incite inspiration, let the surface of the body be briskly slapped with hand, or let cold water be dashed briskly on the surface, previously rubbed dry and warm.

Estimating Distances.

At 30 yards the white of a man's eye is plainly seen, and the eyes themselves up to 80 yards.

At 100 yards all the parts of the body are distinctly seen, slight movements are perceptible, and the minute details of the uniform can be distinguished.

At 150 yards the buttons on the blouse can still be separately distinguished.

At 200 yards the outlines of the face are confused, and the rows of buttons look like stripes.

At 300 yards the buttons are no longer visible.

At 400 yards the face is a mere dot, but all movements of the legs and arms are still distinct.

At 600 yards details can no longer be distinguished, though the files of a squad, if the light is strong, can be counted.

At 800 yards the men in a squad cannot always be counted nor their individual movements distinguished.

At 1,000 yards a line of men simply resemble a broad belt; the direction of their march can, however, be readily determined.

At 1,200 yards infantry can be distinguished from cavalry.

At 2,000 yards a mounted man appears as a mere speck or spot.

To estimate distance by a bursting shell or the smoke or flash of a gun, multiply the number of seconds that elapse between the flash and report by 370 (the distance sound travels in one second); the product will be the distance in yards. To find the distance in miles divide this result by 1,760, (the number of yards in one mile)

Salutes with Cannon.

The national salute is determined by the number of States comprising the Union, at the rate of one gun for each State—at present 45.

The President receives 21 guns.

Vice-President and President of the Senate receives 19 guns.

General " 17 "

Lieut-Gen'l or Gen'l commanding the army " 15 "

The Governor. " 17 "

Major-General " 13 "

Brigadier-General " 11 "

The salute of the national flag is 21 guns.

Military Mourning.

The badge of military mourning is a knot of black crape, worn upon the sword hilt. Not to exceed 30 days, A. R. 443.

The colors of the regiment will only be draped in obedience to orders from the office of the adjutant-general. In draping, black crape streamers 12 inches wide, seven feet in length, will be attached to the ferrule below the spear-head. A. R. Par. 446.

Size of Tents.

Common or A Tents, about 6 feet 10 inches high, 7 feet square and hold 6 men. Wall tents have low walls 3 feet 6 inches high, ridge 10 feet 4 inches high, 9 feet long and 9 feet wide.

The Sibley tent is a circular tent with one pole, and will accommodate 16 men.

Hospital tents are 14 feet long, 15 feet wide, 11 feet high; walls, $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet high.

Adjustment of Merriam Pack.

1. The thong which connects the support to the pack should pass twice through the re-enforcement, forming a loop, then pass the support through the loop and tie in the proper notch, according to height of man.

2. The side blanket straps, between which and the pack the stick always passes, regulates the ventilation—the looser the straps, the more ventilation.

3. The hip strap should be long enough to let the sockets rest over the seams of the trousers, and be worn below the belt at the back.

4. The main branches of the shoulder straps must be equally adjusted—hole for hole—and short enough to keep the hip sockets from falling below the hip joints.

5. The narrow straps on the shoulder straps are to support the belt and cartridge boxes. Fasten the small "Ds" to the belt in front between the two straps on back of cartridge box and adjust so as to relieve weight.

Careful attention to 3 and 4 insures against chafing the hips.

Note 1. The supports spliced together make a pole for the shelter tent.

Note 2. In case of loss or breaking of a support, any other will replace it, as they are interchangeable; or the pack can be carried temporarily without supports by connecting the main branches of the shoulder straps with the buckles on the coat straps.

Definitions.

Stand of arms.—A complete set for one soldier, is rifle and bayonet, cartridge box and belt, etc.

Stand of colors.—The common expression for a single color or flag.

Ration.—A ration is the established daily allowance of food for one person.

A cantonment is when troops are lodged in huts or houses.

A bivouac is where they rest for a short time, or have no shelter of tents or huts.

Rank and file.—The general mass of enlisted men, privates and non-commissioned officers, except non-commissioned staff.

Line officers, as distinguished from staff officers (Farrow's Military Encyclopedia), usually used to designate company officers.

General officer.—An officer having rank above that of colonel.

Field officer.—Colonel, lieutenant-colonel, major.

Officers are granted "leave of absence." Enlisted men are "furloughed."

C. S. on orders means current series.

C. O.—Commanding officer.

A. G. O.—Adjutant-General's office.

A. D. C.—Aid-de-camp.

G. O.—General order. S. O.—Special order.

Reveille, pronounced rev-al-e.—The beat of drum about break of day, to give notice that it is time to rise and for sentinels to forbear challenging.

Retreat—A signal given by drums or trumpets at sunset.

Tattoo—The beat of a drum at night, giving notice to soldiers to repair to their quarters.

Taps—A sound of drum or trumpet, which takes place usually about a quarter of an hour after tattoo, at which all lights are to be extinguished.

First sergeant's call—Three rolls and four taps three times over.

Haversacks are slung from left side, canteens from right side.

When an officers has been ordered to do certain duty, he will always report (in writing, where practicable) to the authority ordering him, giving all the details, as soon as possible after the duty has been done.

Commandants of companies are required to give bonds for 80 stand of arms but are only responsible for what they receipt for.

Aigu'ettes should be worn buttoned to the second and third buttons from the top, on the right hand side of the coat.
